

Happenings, September 15

September 14, 2017 5:53 PM

Watermark's weeks-long Oktoberfest festivities on Pier 15 features one-liter steins of the best German beer, while Brooklynites can party under the Manhattan Bridge on October 6 and 7.

Prost!

Photo Credit: Jordan Mansfield/Getty Images

Back to Blacklight

It's hard to find a boring 5K run nowadays. From getting dosed with colorful powder to superhero-themed costumes, these events seem to resemble parties more than races. And the Blacklight Run is no exception.

These three miles of fun, open to everyone from avid runners to newbies who would rather walk the course, are coming to the Aviator Sports and Events Center this Saturday. Expect lots of neon, glow sticks, and an after-party for all ages to dance the night away. Heck, you'll probably burn more calories on the dance floor than during the run.

Register here! Your $30 ticket includes access to the pre-party, the run, the after-party, and plenty of glow-in-the-dark goodies.