

Celebrate Oktoberfest at NYC bars and street fairs

Posted date: 17.09.2017 Saturday, 23 September 2017

(Courtesy of Bronx Brewery)

Bronx Brewery hosts Oktoberfest in its backyard with live music, German food and beer.

Escaping to Munich, Germany, where the mother-of-all Oktoberfest celebrations takes place any year, may not be the many careful or unsentimental way to enjoy pints and brews with your friends. But fear not, New Yorkers, the city has an unconstrained series of festivals and parties where celebration at noon is excusable and lederhosen are encouraged. Here are a handful of Oktoberfest fetes worth checking out.

Watermark presents Oktoberfest

Oktoberfest earnings to Watermark bar at the South Street Seaport, finish with full-liter steins of beer, games, party and German transport like brats and pretzels for 3 true weekends. Admission is free but tickets are necessary.

Sept. 15-17, Sept. 22-24 and Sept. 29 – Oct. 2 from noon to midnight. Pier 15, 78 South St. Visit oktober-fest.nyc to haven a spot.