

THINGS TO DO

Festivals in NYC: From music to beer, there's a festival for you

By amNY.com staff

Updated August 30, 2018 3:22 PM

PRINT SHARE ↗

No matter your interest, there's a festival for you.

Several events are on the horizon. From RuPaul's Drag Con to the New York Pizza Festival, there is much to do coming up.

Mark your calendars for these upcoming events happening in the city — and remember that New Yorkers buy tickets quickly.

OktoberFest at Watermark

Photo Credit: OktoberFest 2017 NYC

Head to Watermark Bar for a four-week-long celebration. Admission is free and includes cornhole, ping pong, stein holding contests and a keg-tapping ceremony on Sept. 22. Bites, including German fare, giant pretzels, bratwurst and knackwurst, will be sold on site, too. The beer? Only OktoberFest beer will be available. It was brewed in Munich and has six different variations. Single beers are $10 a piece. (Free, but there are priority packages from $50, noon to midnight Sept. 21-23, Sept. 27-30, Oct. 4-7 and Oct. 11-14, Pier 15 on the South Street Seaport, /oktober-fest.nyc)