

THINGS TO DO

Oktoberfest NYC: Where to grab a beer and celebrate

By amNY.com staff

Updated August 27, 2018 5:34 PM

PRINT SHARE ↗

Prost!

Oktoberfest may seem far off, but it's less than a month away. The Bavarian festival is kicking off Sept. 22 in Munich and the city's festivities will begin in earnest.

So, if you're looking for some lederhosen-laden action closer to home, here are beer-and-sausage-fueled affairs in New York City.

OktoberFest at Watermark

Photo Credit: OktoberFest 2017 NYC

Head to Watermark Bar for a four-week-long celebration. Admission is free and includes cornhole, ping pong, stein holding contests and a keg-tapping ceremony on Sept. 22. Bites, including German fare, giant pretzels, bratwurst and knackwurst, will be sold on site, too. The beer? Only OktoberFest beer will be available. It was brewed in Munich and has six different variations. Single beers are $10 a piece. (Free, but there are priority packages from $50, noon to midnight Sept. 21-23, Sept. 27-30, Oct. 4-7 and Oct. 11-14, Pier 15 on the South Street Seaport, /oktober-fest.nyc)